ORDER IS NOT THE OBJECT

Nick Haus Garden • 51 Broad Street, Warren RI

Much like the objects in Nick Haus Shop, the garden comprises a collection of plants selected for their relationship to this place & time. Where possible, Rhode Island natives are used, but more often combined with plants that originally survived primarily in the American South. These are joined by companionate non-native species. Trees & shrubs are selected for their ability to survive climate change as it unfolds. Preference is given to plants that provide food or shelter to native birds, insects (particularly pollinators) & mammals. Nothing is coddled – past initial planting, we seldom water.

The plant list uses common names where possible & is divided into three broad sections: BAKED, MEADOWISH & DAPPLED.
